Salem Press Announces the Newest Addition to the Popular Defining Documents Series: Nationalism & Populism (320 B.C.E.-2016 C.E.)

Defining Documents in World History: Nationalism and Populism surveys key writing and documents produced from 320 to 1600. Maps are included to help the reader further understand the state of the world during each period. This title contains 59 primary source documents that provide a compelling view of these pervasive ideologies in world history.

These volumes investigate important historical documents from influential nationalist and populist movements from countries to territories around the globe. Readers will find in-depth analysis of a broad range of documents, historic events and speeches from leaders that shaped these ideals and movements. Readers will find documents from Aristotle's three constitutions to Rudyard Kipling's poem "The White Man's Burden," to the Treaty of Lausanne to the speeches of Donald Trump. This wide span of coverage within Defining Documents in World History: Nationalism and Populism is organized under seven broad categories:

- The Ancient and Medieval Eras
- American and French Revolutions
- The Nineteenth Century
- The First World War
- The Second World War
- The Cold War
- The Twentieth and Twenty-First Centuries

Each document is supported by a critical essay, written by historians and teachers, that includes a Summary Overview, Defining Moment, Author Biography, Document Analysis, and Essential Themes. Readers will appreciate the diversity of the collected texts, including journals, letters, speeches, political sermons, and laws among others. An important feature of each essay is a close reading of the primary source that develops evidence of broader themes, such as author's rhetorical purpose, social or class position, point of view, and other relevant issues. In addition, essays are organized by section themes, listed above, highlighting major issues of the period, many of which extend across eras and continue to shape life as we know it around the world.

Each section begins with a brief introduction that defines questions and problems underlying the subjects in the historical documents. A brief glossary is included at the end of each document, highlighting keywords that are important in the study of the primary source. Each essay also includes a Bibliography and Additional Reading section for further research.
